

CONSTANT FUNCTIONS

Why

An example of a function.

Definition

A function $f : A \rightarrow B$ is constant if there exists an element $b \in B$ so that $f(x) = b$ for all $x \in A$.

