

Predictors

1 Why

We know the precept. We want to know the postcept, either earlier in time or without looking elsewhere in space.

2 Definition

A predictor is a function from precepts to postcepts. For example, if the prelation is presumptive, then it is clear that we only need the precepts, then the postcepts are determined.