

Universal Character Code

Why

1

Definition

The $universal\ character\ code\ (unicode)$ is a variable-length binary ${\rm code.}^2$

Notation

We often denote the set of unicode strings by string.

¹Future editions will include.

²Future editions will continue.

